

Myanmar leader heads to Bangkok as quake deaths climb to 3,000 - BBC

BBC News Myanmar's junta chief Min Aung Hlaing is in Thailand for a regional summit as his country reels from an earthquake that killed thousands and left cities in ruins. The earthquake in central Myanmar last Friday killed 3,085 people and injured 4,715, the junta has said. UK charities launch Myanmar Earthquake Appeal ----- 22 hrs ago Asia How aid becomes a weapon in Myanmar's war zone ----- 1 day ago Asia Inside Mandalay: BBC joins rescuers searching for earthquake dead in Myanmar ----- 1 day ago Asia 1 day ago Myanmar military announces temporary ceasefire ----- It says the truce will be in effect from 2-22 April to speed up relief efforts after last week's deadly earthquake. About the BBC